

Knowing How to Get Ready and What to Expect for Move Day.

Valuables and Documents

360 Degree Moving has a policy about transporting customers' valuables. We do not move customer's valuables. It is required that customers keep and move any valuables and important documents on their own. Valuables can include but are not limited to:

- Jewelry,
- Heirlooms,
- Collections such as coins, stamps, etc.
- Cash
- Important documents and photos (deeds, wills, ID's, SS Cards, Etc.)

Transporting Furniture and Filing Cabinets

We require that all drawers and filing cabinets be emptied and packed in boxes prior to move day. Furniture with full drawers will not be transported due to high risk of damage to the furniture during transport.

Perishable and Hazardous Items

Food, animals, and live plants are perishable. They can easily spoil, die, or suffer damages if not properly packed. These are items we will not move. All items that are considered flammable, hazardous, corrosive or explosive are dangerous and illegal to move.

Label Everything

Label all boxes with its contents and the room on the top and side of the moving box. This way you and the movers are able to read the labels once you stack them on top of each other and know exactly where to unload your belongings once we have arrived at your new home.

Moving from an Apartment/Condo/Townhome

If you are moving from an apartment, condo, or townhome please inform 360 Degree Moving if a Certificate of Insurance is required. If so, we can coordinate with the building management's office to produce a certificate prior to move date. Reserving your move date and elevator with your building management's office is also extremely important for the movers to have permission and access to complete your move.

If the building you are moving out of or into have any required start time or end time for a move, please inform us.

Conduct a Pre and Post Walkthrough

Conduct a pre-walk through with the foreman of the move and make sure the items you are taking match the guaranteed price quote or the inventory you shared for an hourly contract move. If you decided to take any additional items last minute, discuss this and any potential additional charges with the foreman prior to the move. Before the movers leave the home to deliver your items to the new home, conduct a post walk through to make sure all items that needed to be moved were taken and nothing was left behind before the movers leave.

New Home Pre and Post Walk Through

When you arrive at your new home, you will need to let the movers know which room is which so they are able to unload your belongings in the proper location. You can also accomplish this by placing signs or post it notes on bedroom doors, etc. When the movers are done, conduct one final walk through to make sure everything is reassembled and in its proper place.

Payment

A guaranteed form of payment is required for all moves prior to unload.

Guaranteed form of payments include a certified bank check, cash or a combination of both.
